DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election without traverse of claims 4-11 drawn to a method of ameliorate the negative effects associated with vascular smooth muscle endothelium damage comprising administering a CLC3 blocker in Paper No.3 is acknowledged. Accordingly, the elected claims (4-11) have been examined among with generic claims 1-3, 12 and 13, and the generic claims have been examined only to the extent of the elected separate and distinct invention. Remaining claims 14-21 are withdrawn from consideration as being non-elected claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for the specific CLC3 blocker disclosed, does not reasonably provide enablement for the term "a CLC3 blocker". The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. The term "a CLC3 blocker" in claims 1 and 4 lacks clear exemplary support in the specification as filed.

The remaining claims are rejected to the extent that they depend on claims 1 and 4.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 3, 4, and 6-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The phrase "the negative effects" renders claim 4 indefinite because it is unclear what are "the negative effects" the Applicant is referring to since the phrase is not described in the specification.

5. The parenthetical terms in claims 3, 6 and 13 are redundant.

The remaining claims are indefinite to the extent that they depend on claim 4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lamb (May 1995) of record.

Lamb on page 1, third paragraph, teaches tamoxifen normalized the sensitivity of the contractile of intact endothelium and rubbed vessels in response to NE and KCL.

Lamb on page 2, first paragraph, teaches tamoxifen reverses a process which is induced by damaged to the endothelium causing increase in vascular smooth muscle (VMS) contractility.

Lamb on page 2, first paragraph, teaches tamoxifen normalizes vascular reactivity by shut down CLC-3 channels and return the vascular smooth muscle to its "normal" state.

Lamb on page 2, third paragraph teaches pathological activation of CLC3 may be relevant to multiple clinical disease states which are associated with endothelial dysfunction including coronary artery disease, diabetes and hypertension.

The reference differ from Applicant's claiming invention in that employing tamoxifen to an endothelially-compromised VSM patient in need of reduction in sensitivity of endothelium of VSM and to a patient with vascular smooth muscle endothelium damage and further administering other agents known to treat the diseases cause endothelium damage set forth in claims 7-11.

However, that applicant may have determined a mechanism by which the active ingredient gives the pharmacological effect does not alter the fact that the compound has been previously used to obtain the same pharmacological effects which would result from the claimed method. The patient, condition to be treated and the effect are the same. An explanation of why that effect occurs does not make novel or even unobvious the treatment of the conditions encompassed by the claims.

To combine pharmaceutically active agents that are known to treat the diseases set forth in claims 7-11 are all within the knowledge of the skilled artisan in order to achieve at least additive effect.

For these reasons the claimed subject matter is deemed to fail to patentably distinguish over the state of the art as represented by the cited references. The claims are therefore properly rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103.

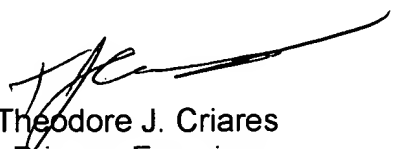

None of the claims are allowed.
